GUIDELINES FOR THE AUTHORS

Positively reviewed and accepted by the Scientific Committee, full-text papers will be published in the Conference monograph by Springer or Inżynieria i Budownictwo – the prestigious journal for the Polish construction industry engineers from PACET. Authors may choose a preferred publication form when sending abstracts. The final form of the publication depends on the decision of the Scientific Committee. The abstracts for preliminary evaluation by the Scientific Committee should be written in English according to the template (provided on <https://ecce.po.edu.pl/>) and sent by December 11, 2025, to the e-mail of the ECCE 2026 organizers (ecce@po.edu.pl). Guidelines for the full-text papers will be sent by the Scientific Committee along with the information on the acceptance of the abstract.

WHAT IS INCLUDED IN THE CONFERENCE FEE FOR THE AUTHORS

One conference fee covers participation in the event with one accepted paper, its presentation, and publication of its extended abstract in the Conference Book. The papers can be presented as multimedia presentations or posters depending on the decision of the Scientific Committee. The conference fee also covers publication of the accepted papers in the reviewed Conference monograph by Springer. The conference fee does not cover additional costs optionally required by PACET for publication in Inżynieria i Budownictwo.

REGISTRATION OF PARTICIPANTS

THEMATIC SCOPE OF THE CONFERENCE

We invite authors of scientific papers in the fields of civil and environmental engineering, architecture, and urban planning. The detailed scope of the Conference concerns:

- reconstruction and renovation of historic and heritage buildings, durability of buildings and structures
- innovative technologies for the construction and operation of buildings in industrial, hydro-technical, municipal, and transport infrastructure in the context of environmental protection
- materials engineering, building physics, construction issues, BIM, and organization and management of investments in sustainable construction
- architecture, urban planning, and spatial planning in the context of sustainable development and eco-culture heritage

The organizers invite researchers, designers, contractors, architectural and construction administration, construction supervision employees, and companies promoting modern technologies and products in the field of construction to participate in the Conference.

Companies from the construction industry interested in presentations of their offer during the Conference are invited to contact the Organizing Committee directly.

FORMS OF PARTICIPATION

- Multimedia presentations and posters of papers
- Multimedia presentations of companies
- Advertising stands for companies

The conference is a form of professional development. Participants will receive a certificate of participation in the Conference.
